

UPDATED FEBRUARY 24, 2012

THE NEECE FAMILY

The Neece family came to America probably in the early to mid 1700s. Like most families, they more than likely entered this country through Philadelphia. By that time, they would have found very little good land left in the area and would have headed south down the Great Philadelphia Wagon Route along the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia.

Some researchers feel that the family was originally from the Palatinate Region of Germany. The original German spelling of the name would have been more likely NEHS or NEAS, which pronounce as Neece. I have found spellings ranging from Nease to Nees and most everything in between.

Several other researchers feel the family was always spelled Neece and that they came from Ireland or England. Based on the history of other early Neese or Neece families and the fact they never used German first names or joined German churches, lends support to this line.

I have found records of an early Nehs Family in Shenandoah County Virginia in the late 1780s. Another researcher, Fred Reed of Midland, Texas has uncovered transcripts made from the original church books written in German for a Lutheran Church in Greene County, Tennessee containing a great deal of information on this family. A Johannes Nehs states he was born on January 8, 1757 in Shenandoah County, Virginia and that his father was Michael Nehs. It doesn't state whether or not Michael Nehs was the immigrant from Germany or whether he was born here. The families then moved further southwest into eastern Tennessee in what is now Greene County. Records of this family continue in Greene County well into the 1800s. Bad news is that our John doesn't tie in directly to this family.

There was also a Peter Neece in Granville County, North Carolina in the 1790 census, his father Martin Neece was in the Revolution. There was a Neece family in the uplands of South Carolina in the Revolutionary days. The original settlers of Tennessee came from these areas in the years after the American Revolution beginning in the mid 1780s. Perhaps one of these families were ancestors or relatives of our Neece family.

Currently the best bet seems to be a Neece/Nease family that came from Washington County, Virginia. That part of Washington County is now Russell County and lies about 30 miles up-river from Jefferson County, Tennessee where our first proven ancestor, John Neece, was married in 1800. A researcher has information on a family headed by Henry Neece who married Ann Bush in Washington County in southwestern Virginia just above the Tennessee border in about 1780. They had these children: Mary, John, James, Austin who married Melinda Allen, Virginia who married Nathan Noble, Jacob and Henry junior. All these children were fairly well documented with the exception of Mary and John. That John Neece was born in 1782 and nothing more is known. Our John Neece was born in 1782 and simply appears in Jefferson County in northeastern Tennessee just below the Virginia border in the very late 1790s and Marries Hulda Ellis in May of 1800. This looks very promising to me, but nothing has been proven.

The first proven ancestor in my Neece lineage is one John Neece. I will start this history with him and his family.

JOHN NEECE

John Neece was born in about 1782 and probably in Virginia although no records exist.

Tennessee did not become a state until 1796. The very early settlers were to be found in the very northeastern portion near the Virginia and North Carolina borders. This was the area of Greene and Jefferson counties. Census records before 1820 were destroyed by the British during the War of 1812.

John Neece was in Tennessee fairly early, at least by the late 1790s, as he was married there in 1800. I mentioned earlier that there was another Nehs family in Greene County, Tennessee by this time. John Neece was in Jefferson County, Tennessee. Perhaps two families came down from Virginia about the same time, but I cannot tie them together.

The marriage records of Jefferson County, Tennessee lists the marriage of John Nees to Huldy Ellis on May 31, 1800. His wife, Hulda Ellis Neece, lists her birthplace as being in Tennessee in 1786. Hulda was the daughter of James Ellis. What I know about the ELLIS FAMILY is covered in an upcoming section.

The first record of John Neece and his family in Lincoln County, Tennessee is a where he sold some of his land in 1814. He obviously had it prior to that time.

The earliest remaining census was the 1820 one and it showed John and Hulda to be between 26 and 45, a male 18-26 (Robert), two males 10-16 (Ellis and William), 2 females 10-16 (Sarah and Polly), and 4 males and 2 females under the age of 10.

John Neece and his family lived in the northeastern portion of Lincoln County. There are numerous land transactions all through the 1820s and 1830s covering lands on or about Mulberry Creek. These lands are in the general area of the present day Bellville and Booneville in Tennessee.

John Neece must have died sometime in the late 1830s before the 1840 census as he does not appear in it. Hulda is listed as head of household at that reporting time. It is felt he is buried in an unmarked grave near others of his family in the Charity Church Cemetery some 3 miles north of Booneville, Tennessee.

In the 1840 Tennessee census, we find separate households for Hulda, Jesse, John junior and H. H. Neece. By 1840 Robert Neece is in Apple Creek Township (White Hall today) of Greene County, Illinois as is his brother William Neece who obviously went west with him.

In 1850 we have Hulda (now 63), and John junior the only remaining Neece families left in Lincoln County. I have a will of James Neece dated 1843. In it he mentions his mother Huldy, wife Martha and guardian Jesse Neece. It was also witnessed by Hardy H. Neece. There was also a 1847 will for Jesse Neece mentioning his wife Sarah Jane Neece. She appears in the 1850 census as head of that household.

Sometime in the late 1830s, Ellis Neece traveled west to establish a new Baptist Church in Aurora, Lawrence County, Missouri. His mother, Hulda, joined him later and she died in Lawrence, Missouri in November of 1861 and is buried there in the Buck Prairie Cemetery.

The following is what I know about the fourteen children of John and Hulda Neece.

Robert Neece

Robert Neece was born in Jefferson County, Tennessee on March 25th, 1801. He was the eldest child of John and Hulda Ellis Neece. He moved with his family to Lincoln County when he was about ten years old.

In about 1821, Robert married Penninah Weaver in Lincoln County, Tennessee. Nina was the daughter of Craven and Winnifred Weaver.

The WEAVER FAMILY HISTORY is contained in the following section of this addendum.

Late in 1829 or early in the year 1830, Robert, Nina and their first five children left for new lands in Illinois. They were joined by the families of his brother, William Neece and in-laws James Chinn and Jacob Godwin. They all settled on adjacent properties in Greene County near Belltown, Illinois.

Robert appeared on the 1829 tax list in Tennessee, and was carried on the Illinois census in 1830. The move took place between these two time periods.

Robert and Penninah remained in Greene County for the rest of their lives. The remaining six of their eleven children were born there. He was a farmer.

His brother William Neece and his family had accompanied them on their trip west. The two families lived near each other in northwest Greene County.

Robert Neece died just short of his 50th birthday on January 13, 1851. Penninah lived another thirty years and died on March 21, 1881. Both are buried at the High Street Cemetery in White Hall, Illinois.

The following is what I know about the eleven children of Robert and Penninah Neece.

ELIZABETH ADELIN NEECE was the first born child. She was born December 25, 1822. On June 17, 1838 she married Josiah Jones in Belltown, Greene County, Illinois. These were my mother's great grandparents. Their lives are told in the main body of this JONES FAMILY HISTORY. Their children were:

John Jones born December 11, 1839. He married Minerva Eve Patterson on April 15, 1865 in Greene County. He died December 21, 1928.

Robert Jones born in 1843. He died at the battle of Shiloh, Tennessee on April 6, 1862.

Cullen Jones born in 1852. He married Sarah E. Silkwood on June 24, 1879. He too died in Alsea, Oregon on September 7, 1903.

Frances Jones born in December 1862 and died September 11, 1863.

CINCINNATI CAROLINE NEECE was born about 1824 in Lincoln County, Tennessee. She married Luther Emory in Greene County on February 17, 1840.

ELIZA ANN NEECE was born November 3, 1825. She married George Washington Crayne in Greene County on April 14, 1841. He was a farmer, born April 3, 1823 in Virginia, and they lived near Athensville, Macoupin County, Illinois all their lives. She died in Macoupin County on November 3, (?) 1895. George died there April 13, 1841. Their children were:

Robert H. Crayne born in 1842.

Ranson M. Crayne born in 1846.

George H. Crayne born in 1849.

Jesse Jasper Crayne born January 8, 1854 and died in Kansas City, Missouri September 11, 1926. He married Mary Ellen Gilstrap on January 12, 1873.

WILLIAM MARION NEECE was born March 23, 1826 in Tennessee. He married Ann Marian Warren in Greene County on September 10, 1845. He was listed as a 'renter' in White Hall in the 1879 History of Greene County. He died about 1827-1828. They had these children:

Lawrence Neece born August 10, 1846.

Sylvester Neece born October 17, 1848.

Robert N. Neece born April 4, 1851 and died in St. Louis November 12, 1916. He married Susan P. Denault on May 29, 1872. They had two daughters.

ALFRED WALKER NEECE was the last child born in Lincoln County, Tennessee. He was born on December 9, 1828. He married Margaret (Marjarey) Malissa Allen in Greene County on September 10, 1845. Margaret was born June 12, 1829 and was a daughter of William Allen and Mary Pinkerton. Alfred served in C Company of the 1st Illinois Regular Volunteers in the Mexican War. The men of Greene County signed on for service in June of 1846 and on July 19th left for Mexico. They fought at the Battle of Buena Vista and other battles and returned in 1848. Alfred later moved to Christian County, Illinois where he remained until his death on July 24, 1905. Margaret had died in Macoupin County, Illinois on December 31, 1872. Their children were:

Lou Neece born April 17, 1857 and died February 23, 1936. Now this is very interesting. I initially had this person as a Louise Neece born April 17, 1857 and died February 23, 1863. Then, I came in contact with a descendent who informed me Lou was a guy, his great grandfather. It seems Lou took off to make his living as a magician and felt his name wasn't right for the job, so he changed it to George John Van de Houten. He later moved to Chicago and opened an auto parts and supply store. At any rate, he married Esther Davey in Chicago in 1882. She was born in Bristol, England November 23, 2859 and died in Chicago December 5, 1935.

Emma Neece born September 18, 1860 and died August 20, 1910. She married Joseph

Hale.

Lee Neece a son born September 1, 1866. I have him as marrying M. Roe in Morgan County on November 2, 1877, but that seems pretty young when he was only eleven. I have the first wife dying February 22, 1890. He then married Maggie Westbrook Estes. He died December 13, 1945, Maggie died August 19, 1960.

Fred Neece born May 18, 1870 and died May 27, 1921. He married a Woodward girl.
